The Woman in Cabin 10

by Ruth Ware

Journalist Lo Blacklock has just been given the assignment of a lifetime: a week on a luxury cruise with only a handful of cabins. The cabins are plush, the dinner parties are sparkling, and the guests are elegant. But then Lo witnesses what she thinks is a woman being thrown overboard. The problem? All passengers remain accounted for and the ship sails on as if nothing has happened, despite Lo's desperate attempts to convey that something has gone terribly wrong...

Hell & High Water

by Tanya Landman

Teenager Caleb and his father roam

Shtum

by Jem Lester

10-year-old Jonah has severe autism and Ben and his wife, Emma, are struggling to cope. When Ben and Emma fake a separation - a strategic decision to further Jonah's case in an upcoming tribunal to get extra care- Ben and Jonah move in with George, Ben's elderly father. In a small house in North London, three generations of men - one who can't talk; two who won't - are thrown together.

The Fifth Mrs Brink: A Memoir

by Karina Szczurek

Readable non-fiction

Karina M. Szczurek's memoir of her life before, during and after her marriage to André P. Brink. Polish-born Karina was 27 when she met the acclaimed writer, 42 years her senior, and they spent a decade together. Here she chronicles their relationship, from their first encounter in Vienna, Austria, and moving across continents to be with each other, to finding calm and stability in their married life in Cape Town, and finally facing the challenges of André's deteriorating health in the last year of his life.

England with little to their names but the theatre and puppets with which they stage popular Punch and Judy shows. When Pa is convicted of a theft he didn't commit and sentenced to transportation to the colonies in America, Caleb is sent to an aunt on the coast, where everyone treats him differently because of the colour of his skin. But when Caleb finds a body washed up on shore, he stumbles into something much bigger than a man's death in the high water.
